The Message:

It might seem like things are so wrong in our world, in our school, and in our lives that they just seem broken. Although we can never fix everything and have a perfect life, we can all have a good life. It comes down to attitude. If we have a YES WE CAN attitude, there will be lots of things we can fix. Even when we our efforts don't seem successful, they are not wasted. By trying to fix things, we usually make them better, and we always make ourselves better!

This program draws inspiration from kids with a YES WE CAN attitude:

A girl whose grandfather was always spilling his drinks due to Parkinson's disease invents the nearly spill-proof Kangaroo Cup.

A second-grader realizes he has been a bully, and not only apologizes, but asks his victim to join with him to start an ant-bully club.

An eight-year-old begins a campaign to provide a million free books to kids who can't buy them by the time she is eighteen. She reaches her goal at age thirteen, and sets a new goal to send books to every state and every country.

A boy sees a need to fight hunger in his community and forms a group with the motto, "Have fun helping others". Together, they raise enough to provide 100,000 meals, but they don't stop there.

A first-grader learns that millions of people in our world do not have clean water. He is told that $70 will provide a clean water well in Africa. He raises that much by doing chores, then finds out that it will instead cost $2000. He finds ways to raise that and much more!

Music, movie clips, and sports action are woven together to guarantee an engaging experience!
