

Expect Good Things

The message:

There is nothing wrong with expecting good results from good effort, or even expecting good things at special times such as birthdays and holidays. The problems with expectations arise when we expect to get what we want no matter how we act or even when it might hurt someone else. This can be called "center of the universe behavior", and it will always result in big problems. So...

Instead of always expecting good things for ourselves, we can learn to always expect good things from ourselves.

As this exciting assembly program unfolds, your kids will learn that:

Politeness is more than just "good manners".

Good traits like honesty come from thinking of others.

Remembering to be grateful always makes things better.

The greatest achievements are those that help others.

Bullying is not a solution, and bullied kids are not alone!

They will see and hear:

Movie characters they know and love, the fun and the colorful cars of the award-winning Auto B Good character education series.

Most importantly, your students will be inspired by stories about amazing kids who are doing good things now!

Our three screens create an 11' x 43' video wall.
